

Add to Home Screen

iPhone setup guide — takes under a minute

1

Open the site in Safari

This only works from Safari — not Chrome or another browser. Go to your Daily Task Log site and log in as usual.

2

Tap the Share button

It's the square icon with an arrow pointing up, in the bottom toolbar (or near the address bar on newer iOS versions).

3

Find “Add to Home Screen”

Scroll down the share sheet, past the row of app icons, to the list of actions below.

4

Confirm the name and icon

iOS shows the Daily Task Log icon and lets you edit the name if you'd like. Tap “Add” in the top-right corner.

Done — tap the icon to launch

The icon now sits on your home screen like any other app. Tapping it opens Daily Task Log full-screen, without Safari's address bar — it feels like a real installed app.

Worth knowing

- This only works in Safari — Chrome and other iOS browsers don't support the full-screen “Add to Home Screen” feature the same way.
- The shortcut doesn't remember your login any differently than a normal browser tab — if you're logged out, opening the icon still takes you to the login screen.
